This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

AGRICULTURAL AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS.

The following tariff schedules of countries imposing import duties on agricultural and animal products have been compiled by the Bureau of Manufactures, Department of Commerce and Labor. While in all cases the latest enactments have been consulted in the compilation of these rates, changes by legislation, executive decrees, and by customs decisions affecting classification are constantly taking place. These are promptly reported in Daily Consular and Trade Reports, are kept on file in the Bureau of Manufactures, and may be freely consulted.

	Malting barley	do	7.00	4.00
	Other	do	7.00	1.30
	Note.—The following is to be regarded as barley other than "malting barley," and to be admitted at the reduced rate: (1) On entering at certain customs stations provided with special authority, barley which, in its pure, unmixed, beardless state, does not reach the weight of 65 kilos per hectoliter, and likewise does not contain more than 30 per cent of grain of which the weight is 67 kilos per hectoliter or more. (2) Barley for which the information is available that it is unfitted for the manufacture of malt or that it is not intended for that purpose. In case the correctness of the ascertainment of the quantity admitted under heading 1 is disputed by the importer, or in case other grounds of doubt as regards the use to which it is to be put arise respecting a consignment presented for clearance on account of its special character, the customs department is only bound to admit the goods at the reduced rate, if it has previously been rendered unsuitable for use in the manufacture of malt. This can be done at the option of the customs department by grinding, hulling, bruising, or any similar process. It is understood, however, that the application of any such process does not entail any expense to the importer.

This increase shall be 15 per cent of the invoice price for goods imported from St. Thomas with an invoice from said island, and 25 per cent for all other goods. In default of an invoice, the customs shall appraise the value of the goods, either according to the wholesale price in the island or according to the ordinary retail price less 25 per cent of such price. In both cases the customs duties must not be included in the appraised value.

ST. THOMAS.

All agricultural and animal products imported into St. Thomas, with the exception of those admitted free of duty, are subject to an ad valorem duty of 3 per cent. Beginning with April 1, 1907, the duty will be 6 per cent ad valorem.

MACHINERY, MACHINE TOOLS, AND VEHICLES.

The following tariff schedules of countries imposing import duties on machinery, machine tools, and vehicles have been compiled by the Bureau of Manufactures, Department of Commerce and Labor. While in all cases the latest enactments have been consulted in the compilation of these rates, changes by legislation, executive decrees, and by customs decisions affecting classification are constantly taking place. These are promptly reported in Daily Consular and Trade Reports, are kept on file in the Bureau of Manufactures, and may be freely consulted.

BELGIUM.

[In effect March 1, 1906.]

[Franc, $0.193.]

Tariff No.	Articles.	Unit of quantity.	Rate of duty.
33	Machines, implements, and tools:[a]		Francs.
	Of aluminium	100 kilos	40.00
	Of cast iron	do	2.00
	Of iron or steel	do	4.00
	Of wood	Ad val	10 per ct.
	Of copper or any other material[b]	100 kilos	12.00
	[a] Component parts of machines are dutiable as machines. Machines or parts of machines, subject to different duties, are classed according to the material predominating in weight. The declarants are required to place the customs in the position to ascertain the predominating material under penalty of paying duty on the highest taxed material of the machine or component part thereof under examination. Electric submarine and underground cables and railway and tramway carriages of all kinds are included in machines. The denomination tools only refers to such tools as are used in the exercise of a trade. The following are admitted free of duty under the denomination machines: Implements and tools. Steam rollers for rolling road metal. Tissues impregnated with caoutchouc, whether lined or not with felt, specially manufactured for making card fillets. Imports of these tissues can only take place through the custom-houses designated for the purpose by the minister of finance, and subject to the importers proving to the satisfaction of the customs that the tissues are really intended for the above-mentioned use. Treatment of machines and implements imported in several consignments: Machines and implements imported in an unfitted condition shall be dutiable according to the material predominating in weight in the fitted machine or implement, subject to compliance with the following rules: The component parts of the machines and implements may enter at one time or successively in different lots. All the various partial consignments must be presented to the same custom-house within a period, not exceeding two months, to be fixed by the importer at the time of entry of the first lot. At the time of introducing an unfitted machine or implement, or any component parts thereof, the importer shall produce, together with the declaration, the plans and drawings of the complete machine or implement, as also a list of the main parts, according to the kind and weight of each, with number thereon, and state approximately the aggregate weight of the minor accessory parts. If, after shipment of some component parts, the others are not presented to the customs within the specified time, the parts which have already been imported will be liable to the rates of duty levied on component parts of machines and implements. The absence of a few minor accessory parts will not, however, prevent the duties being levied at the rates established for the complete machine or implement. Pending final shipment of all the parts of the consignment, the customs shall be entitled to require a security for the highest rates of duty which might be payable, and to affix an identification mark to the parts imported by lots; they may also satisfy themselves at the expense of the person paying duty, after the machine or implement has been fitted together, that the various component parts making up the partial shipments actually belong to the machine or implement in question.—Spare or duplicate parts shall always pay duty separately. [b] The heading machines and implements of copper or any other material include more particularly gold beater's skin, as well as caoutchouc combined with other materials for use in the printing of stuffs. The machines or parts of machines and tools of copper, caoutchouc, etc., may be declared as manufactured copper, manufactured caoutchouc, etc., in case the importer considers this classification more favorable than the heading machines, implements, and tools.

The mere fact that a single subsidiary part of a machine is missing shall not, however, necessarily entail refusal on the part of the customs authorities to accept the rate of duty fixed for the complete machine.

The authorities in question shall, moreover, be empowered, after the machine has been assembled, to undertake an inspection of the same (at the importer's cost) with a view to convincing themselves that the whole of the parts belong to this machine.

	Note to Nos. 992–906, 907, 915, 921–923.—The articles mentioned in these numbers of the tariff (machines, vehicles, etc.) may, on the following conditions, be imported also in separate pieces and nevertheless be classified for tariff purposes as complete articles of the same description. It is immaterial whether the parts of a single article are imported at the same time or at intervals of time, or in separate consignments, or loaded on one or on several wagons. The absence of accessory parts or even of certain principal parts (fly wheels, axles, pillows, bedplates, or the like) is also of no consequence. If the duty varies according to the weight of the article, duty will be levied on the total weight thereof without regard to the missing parts. All partial consignments must be presented for clearance at the same custom-house, within a space of time to be fixed at the time of presentation of the first consignment, but not exceeding six months. The declaration of importation of a complete consignment imported in separate pieces of a first partial consignment must be accompanied by a plan or drawing of the entire article, and also by a list of the principal parts, indicating their nature and the weight of each. The approximate total weight of the accessory parts must also be mentioned. If, after the importation of one or more partial consignments, the rest is not presented for clearance within the time allowed, the parts already introduced will pay duty at the appropriate rates, or, if the tariff provides no special duties, according to the material of which they are composed. The customs are entitled to demand, until the final clearance of the last partial consignment, a guarantee for the payment of duties at the highest rates leviable, and to furnish the imported pieces with marks of identification. They are also authorized, after the article has been put together, to convince themselves, by an examination made at the expense of the importer, that all the partial consignments really formed part of the said article. Spare and duplicate parts are always dutiable by themselves.

	1. Weighing more than 1,000 kilos	do		13.00

* The treaties with Switzerland and Germany provide that machines be admitted at the conventional rates even when imported in an unfitted condition, and whether the parts arrive in one or in different shipments, or are loaded on one or several wagons. This provision also applies to incomplete machines, i. e., those lacking some part necessary for their action, or some accessory part.

All the various partial consignments must be presented to the same custom-house for clearance within a period, not exceeding six months, to be fixed by the importer at the time of entry of the first lot.

At the time of introducing an unfitted machine or any component parts thereof, the importer shall produce, together with the declaration, the plans and drawings of the complete machine, as also a list of the main parts, according to the kind and weight of each, and state approximately the aggregate weight of the minor accessory parts.

If, after clearance of some component parts, the others are not presented to the customs within the specified time, the parts which have already been imported will be liable to the rates of duty levied on component parts of machines, or if the tariff fails to provide special rates for the latter they will be liable to duty according to component material.

Pending final clearance of all the parts of the consignment, the customs shall be entitled to require a security for the highest rates of duty which might be payable, and to affix an identification mark to the parts imported by lots; they may also satisfy themselves, at the expense of the person paying duty, after the machine has been fitted together, that the various component parts making up the partial shipments actually belong to the machine in question.

Spare or duplicate parts always pay the appropriate duties.

No distinction will be made with regard to the materials of which the machines are composed.

Machines, or detached parts thereof, may be polished, painted, varnished, or otherwise worked, and will not, on account of the special work they have been subjected to, undergo any change with respect to classification.

† Under the treaty with Switzerland, machines of all kinds driven by dynamo-electric machines, but separable therefrom, pay the appropriate conventional duties separately from the dynamo-electric machine. It will be optional for the importer to enter according to Note 3 to Note 240 i at 13 or 19 lire, as the case may be, machines, separable from the dynamo, if he prefers not to separate, at the time of importation, the driving from the driven part, provided the classification of the two separate parts does not involve the application of higher duties in the aggregate.

‡ This note appears in the treaties with Austria-Hungary and Switzerland. By virtue of the treaty with Switzerland, chambers of turbines with the pipe (with or without throttle valve) connecting the chamber to the inlet water conduct; the iron framework of the turbine; the mechanism of the sluice valve and gratings (in accordance with the drawing annexed to the treaty of 1892) will be considered as integral parts of turbines and will be subject to the same treatment. This concession is made subject to the proviso that the aforesaid parts of the turbine be imported simultaneously with the turbine itself, or that the terms of the general note concerning machines comprised under No. 240 be duly observed.

§ According to the treaty with Switzerland, the conventional duty established for spinning machinery is to be applicable to all machinery included in No. 240 g of the general tariff according to the note to heading "Spinning machinery" in the tariff index ("Repertorio") in force at the time of signing the treaty.

‖ Under the treaty with Switzerland, the conventional duty fixed for weaving machines is to be applied to all machines comprised under No. 240 h of the general tariff, according to the note to heading "Weaving machinery" in the tariff index ("Repertorio") in force at the time of signing the treaty.

¶ To enjoy the benefit of these duties the importer is required to prove by means of a certificate delivered by the factory, that the motor does not form the prepondering weight of the whole machine.

540	Cylindrical steam generators. (Note 71)	100 kilos	18.00	15.00
	Note 68.—By agricultural machinery, dutiable under No. 538, shall be understood the machinery employed by farmers and agriculturists for preparing the ground, gathering the crops and cleaning them, and also machinery used for crushing grapes and olives.
	Note 69.—The motors of agricultural machinery and horse powers shall be dutiable under No. 538, provided the importer affords proof that the motors are destined exclusively for use in agriculture.
	Note 70.—Landlords and tenants who at present enjoy the advantages of the law of June 3, 1868, shall pay on implements, instruments, and machines intended exclusively for agricultural purposes, an import duty of 1 peseta per 100 kilograms. For this purpose, however, the importer will undertake to pay the higher tariff rates unless, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the customs, he produces a certificate signed by the mayor of his locality specifying the denomination, class, and weight of the agricultural implements, instruments, and machines employed on the respective estates, together with a further certificate from the proper authorities to the effect that the estate in question is in enjoyment of the privileges of the aforesaid law. If he fails to produce these two documents he shall pay the full duties provided in the tariff.
	Note 71.—For the definition of parts of machinery, the following rules will be observed:
	1. A separate piece of a machine is understood to be any article not expressly specified under some heading of the tariff, which by its shape and the condition in which it is presented for clearance, though not completely finished, can only be used, and can only be considered as destined, for a machine which, if finished, would pay under one of the headings of the tariff referring to machinery.
	2. Tubes, bars, axles, screws, sheets, plates, boiler bottoms, wire, and other articles expressly tariffed, must pay duty accordingly, even though they be destined for machinery.
	3. In order that hose pipes, filters, and cloths, or blankets of wool, linen, cotton, or other textile fibers employed in manufacturing processes, may be dutiable as machinery, evidence as to the industry or factory for which they are destined must be produced.
	4. Tools, implements, and utensils employed in the arts and in industry can not be considered as detached parts of machinery, and must pay duty according to the materials of which they are composed.

Note 76.—The duties on ships include the anchors, kedges, cables and chains, barometers, chronometers, binnacles, compasses (loose and fixed), speaking trumpets, telescopes, casks, cordage, sails, and masts and spars, necessary for the maneuvers and safety of vessels, with due regard to their class. Spare masts and spars, cordage, and sails, in accordance with the requirements of the vessels, will also be admitted free of any further duty. This rule will also apply to carpetings, glass, earthenware, lamps, fixtures, furniture, and other articles of comfort or luxury destined exclusively for the cabin service or for the use and defense of the vessels, in quantities proportioned to the class and destination of the same. Spare parts for steam vessels are also included. When the customs authorities are in doubt as to whether parts for ships which are claimed to be spare parts are or are not in accordance with the regulations, they shall require from the proper marine authority a certificate specifying the quantity and nature of the parts which, having regard to the class of the vessel they are intended for, should be regarded as spare parts in accordance with the regulations. When the articles referred to in this note do not meet the requirements indicated, they will pay the duties fixed in the respective numbers of the tariff.

Note 77.—Duties on steam vessels are to be levied on the total measurement tonnage, and no separate duty is to be levied on the machinery, which is to be considered as an integral part of the vessel.

As a basis for the tariff clearance of ships introduced from abroad the certificate of tonnage measurement may provisionally be used, which, in conformity with article 28 of the regulations of the 2d December, 1874, and the royal order of the 12th January, 1876, has to be delivered to the collector of customs with the visé of the commandant of marine.

The interested parties must present to the customs authorities a certificate of the commandant of marine stating that the certificate of measurement has been approved by the inspector, in accordance with articles 29 and 32 of the said regulations; and it is to be understood that the customs authorities will not consider the clearance and payment of the duties as finally settled until this formality has been complied with and noted in the declaration or other document.

Spanish ships lengthened in foreign dockyards must, on their return to Spain, pay duty on the additional tonnage.

Spanish vessels refitted with engines abroad, when it is impossible to ascertain the weight of the new machinery, will pay a duty of 28 pesetas per indicated horsepower. Boilers and accessories thereof, funnels, tubes, etc., refitted abroad, will pay 14 pesetas per each square meter of heating surface.

For other repairs done to such vessels in foreign ports duty shall be paid on the materials employed.

Note 78.—Vessels having their holds and covered spaces arranged to receive merchandise of any kind, even though with quarters for one passenger to each 150 tons of the vessel's total tonnage, shall be denominated cargo vessels.

Note 79.—Vessels having their holds and covered spaces arranged to accommodate passengers and any kind of goods shall be denominated cargo and passenger vessels. The quarters for passengers of all classes in this kind of vessel shall not be capable of accommodating more than 20 passengers to each 400 tons of the vessel's total tonnage.

Note 80.—Vessels which are principally arranged for the accommodation and transport of passengers of all classes, but which, notwithstanding, may carry cargo correspond-

[a] Tariff No. 612 includes machinery and apparatus of all kinds not specified, intended for use in agriculture, mining, industries, or arts.

By machinery is understood a collection of pieces or parts for generating or transmitting power, or for performing any other operation, operating always by regular movements and periods.

The machinery or apparatus which are not intended for the industries, agriculture, mining, or the arts are not included in this tariff number, and are dutiable according to their material and kind. In this class are included typewriters and calculating machines, and, in general, all apparatus and small machines for domestic use.

Mechanical tools, provided they operate with regular and periodic movements, are embraced in this tariff number.

Loose parts and pieces of machines, included in tarifi No. 612, are all those which can not be put to other uses; those which are capable of being employed for other purposes, such as keys, valves, tubes, plates, metallic films, bolts, screws, etc., are subject to the duties assigned to them in the tariff, even if it should be proved by the importers that they are intended for use in machinery.

[b] Tariff Nos. 623 and 624 refer to vehicles of all kinds, not specified, for commerce, agriculture, and the transportation of merchandise. Cars, wagons, and carts, with or without springs, without frames or boxes (such as those employed in the transportation of trees, rails, etc.); vehicles, closed or open, with a solid or light box or bed, with or without windows, for the purpose of delivering merchandise in towns; and, in general, all vehicles whose principal use is the transportation of merchandise are, according to their weight, included in these numbers.

[c] Tariff No. 626 exempts from duty only rolling stock intended for railways open for public traffic, for the conveyance of passengers and merchandise; the classification of the rolling stock is to be determined by the width of the trucks, which must correspond to a track of not less than 914 millimeters wide. Vehicles of a lesser width are comprised in No. 625.

Tank cars intended for the transportation of liquids or fats by rail are included in this number. By detached and duplicate parts of railway carriages are meant all those which form parts of the carriages and are unfit for any other application, such as wheels, buffers, axles, springs, etc. Those parts which could be otherwise used, even if proved that same are imported to be fitted to railway carriages, shall be subject to their corresponding rates.

[d] Tariff Nos. 627, 628, and 629 refer to carriages, properly speaking, not specified, which are used exclusively for the transportation of persons, such as omnibuses, stagecoaches, vans, berlins, coupés, cabriolets, phaetons, carriages, victorias, buggies, sulkies, duchesses, dogcarts, tilburies, vis-à-vis, trois-quarts, rockaways, landaus, hansoms, etc., it being an expressed condition in distinguishing them that they shall be unfit for transporting merchandise. The circumstance that there may be places in stagecoaches, omnibuses, and covered vans intended for baggage will not alter their classification as carriages for the exclusive transportation of persons.

	APPARATUS AND MACHINES.
	Note.—For the definition of parts of machinery the following rules must be observed: 1. A separate piece of a machine is understood to be any object which is not expressly specified by name under some heading of the tariff, and which by its shape and by the manner in which it is presented for clearance in the custom-house, though not completely finished, may be considered as exclusively intended for a machine, and incapable of any other application. If it be imported completely finished, it must pay under one of the headings of the tariff referring to machinery. 2. Tubes, bars, axles, screws, bolts, sheets, plates, boiler bottoms, wire, and other articles expressly taxed in the tariff must pay duty accordingly though they be intended for machinery. 3. Tools, instruments, and utensils employed in the arts, agriculture, and industry can not be considered as parts of machinery for the application of duty, and must pay according to the materials of which composed.		Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.

220	Locomotives and traction engines	do	25	20	20
221	Turntables, hydraulic cranes, and columns	do	25	20	20

[a] For the application of duty it should be observed:

(a) That the machine must be complete. Complete machines include tubes (flues), belting, etc., which form an integral part of such machines, but no spare parts.

(b) That spare parts are dutiable according to No. 222 when of copper, and to No. 226 in all other cases.

(c) That to be considered as complete, machines must be imported in one sole shipment. Machines imported in two or more shipments are liable to the duties stipulated in No. 222 and No. 226, except in the case when a previous and special authorization has been granted by the collector at the chief port.

[b] This tariff number includes:

(a) The following articles, whoever be the importer: Complete machines of all kinds for crushing sugar cane; steam crushers; complete apparatus for diffusion; purifying apparatus; clarifying apparatus; reservoirs for sirup or molasses; filters and filtering apparatus; apparatus called "trenes jamaquinos," complete; furnaces for making animal black; steam desiccators; centrifugal machines, vessels called "bombonas," "cachimbas" (kind of kettle to transfer cane sirup from one vessel to another), skimmers, distributers, and sugar molds; copper apparatus or vessels ("tachos") acting in vacuum, also their machines, pipes, and cocks, of copper or iron; polarimeters.

(b) The following articles, when imported directly by planters, on proof of the installation thereof in their establishments: Steam plows; stills; donkey engines, with or without pumps; weighing machines (platforms) for weighing sugar cane; gasometers for lighting the works; material for narrow-gauge plantation railways, and spare parts for trucks; carts for the conveyance of cane and the output of the works.

[c] The machines and apparatus mentioned in this number are those employed by farmers and agriculturists for preparing the ground and gathering the crops; also those employed in order to clean the crops and improve them without essentially changing their nature.

Hay presses, used exclusively for baling hay, are classified under No. 216 as agricultural machinery and apparatus.

[d] Articles corresponding to No. 218 and No. 219, and which are expressly imported by shipowners, and on proper verification, intended for use in the repair of registered steam vessels of Cuba, are dutiable at the rate of 8 per cent ad valorem.

All other articles shall be liable to the duties leviable thereon.
	Note II.—Duties on steam vessels shall be levied on the total number of tons which may result from the official measurement, and no separate duty shall be levied on machinery which shall be considered an integral part of the vessel.
	The certificate of tonnage shall temporarily serve as a basis for levying duty on vessels entering from abroad. The interested parties must present to the customs authorities a certificate of measurement approved by the inspector; but it is understood that the customs authorities will not consider the clearance and payment of the duties as finally settled until this formality has been complied with and noted.
	National ships lengthened in foreign dockyards must, on their return, pay duty on the additional tonnage.
	Vessels refitted with engines abroad shall pay a duty of $6 per horsepower when it is impossible to ascertain the weight of the new machinery.
	Boilers and accessories thereof, funnels, tubes, etc., changed abroad shall be liable to a duty of $3 per each square meter of heating surface.
	Vessels undergoing other repairs in foreign ports shall, on their return, pay duty on the material employed for the purpose.

[a] Machines and separate pieces of same, of copper and its alloys, with part of other materials, are also taxed under this heading, provided the above metals predominate in weight. (See also footnote [a] to No. 215.)

Machines classified under other paragraphs, when copper predominates in their construction, shall also enjoy a reduction of 25 per cent instead of 20 per cent if products of the industry of the United States.

[b] It will be necessary to prove to what manufacture or to what industry spare woolen hose and filters are destined in order to be assessed according to this number. (See also footnote [a] to No. 215.)

Water-closets and parts thereof are classified under No. 226 as "apparatus."

Piston packing, of rubber and tissue, is classified under No. 226.

Boiler tubes of iron or steel, which are integral parts of the boiler itself, and have no other application, are classified under No. 226. The "tubes" mentioned in note 2 at the head of group 2, "Apparatus and machines," refer to tubes which, though applicable to machines, water conduction, etc., might be used for other purposes.

TARIFFS ON MACHINERY, MACHINE TOOLS, AND VEHICLES.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

The present publication is designed to supplement Tariff Series No. 3, issued in May, 1907. It contains all the changes affecting the rates of duty on machinery and vehicles that have occurred in the various countries since the publication of Tariff Series No. 3, as well as the rates on these articles in five countries omitted from the original compilation—Honduras, Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Colombia, and the Dutch East Indies. The following countries have adopted complete new tariffs or have so radically changed their previous schedules as to necessitate the reproduction in this report of all tariff numbers relating to machinery, machine tools, and vehicles: Denmark, France, Greece, Nicaragua, the Bahamas, Montserrat, Saint Lucia, Turks and Caicos islands, the Dutch West Indies, British Guiana, Chile, Paraguay, Venezuela, the Philippine Islands, the Commonwealth of Australia, and New Zealand. In the case of countries not named above, only the changed rates or regulations are given, while the rates which are found in Tariff Series No. 3 and of which the amendment or withdrawal is not specifically indicated in this supplement are still in effect. All the rates have been revised to May, 1910.

The changes shown for Servia represent the rates of the proposed tariff, which was already in force provisionally, although it had not yet received final legislative sanction when this report went to press, and was consequently still liable to amendment.

[b] Boiler fittings and safety appliances are dutiable according to kind, except those attached to the walls of the boilers in a fixed and permanent manner. The cast-iron plates of fire boxes are dutiable separately under No. 553.

[c] Steel tubes, seamless, contained in the boilers, shall pay the rates of duty inscribed under No. 567bis for tubes of the kind in question.

[d] The electric apparatus which drives locomotives is dutiable separately under the appropriate tariff number.

[dd] As defined in the Explanatory Notes to the Tariff (Notes explicatives du Tableau des Droits), published by the French Customs Bureau, "standard gauge" denotes a distance of 1.45 meters (57.1 inches) between rails, and "narrow gauge" a distance of not more than 1.20 meters (47.2 inches).

[e] Ventilating apparatus is dutiable separately under the appropriate classification. The same applies to tubular apparatus consisting of seamless tubes, while those consisting of welded tubes are included in the total weight of the machine.
